Temporary removal or permanent suspension from the program and/or facilities may result if behavior standards are not maintained.

Special Needs: We are committed to ensuring that our programs are inclusive and accessible to all. We offer a Therapeutic Rec Membership to any individuals with special needs or accommodations. Refunds are not given for weather cancellation of less than 25% of the program time and only then if make-ups cannot be offered. Refunds are not given for special events involving ticket purchase or if the department has incurred an expense on your behalf. There are no refunds for missed classes.

Cancellations after the session starts:

If you are unhappy with a program after the first session, please contact us right away to discuss withdrawing and receiving a refund.

April Vacation Glass Program

Join NBPT Rec and North Shore Glass School for a glass fusion program! Students are taught to craft with a unique and fascinating material--glass. We'll make wearable glass pendants, small bowls, picture frames, or suncatchers depending on the workshop you choose. Students will be taught through demonstrations and hands-on instruction about different methods for cutting, working with and arranging glass. They'll learn about color, composition, different types of glass, and the firing process to further their understanding of glass working. Once they create their pieces, we take their art back to our studio to fire them in our kilns to be delivered to students upon completion. This class requires no prior experience and is ideal for students who are curious about art and love working with their hands.

All safety materials and instruction are included, and there is no fire, heat, or open flame during the workshop--it's not necessary for glass fusing!

Executive functioning skills can impact students at home, school and in social situations. Sarah Ward will teach easy to implement strategies that help children initiate tasks, follow routines and think in an organized way to encourage self-initiative to manage homework and responsibilities.
